

Twenty-Eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time
October 9, 2016

Ten were cleansed, were they not?
Where are the other nine?
Has none but this foreigner returned to give thanks to God?

Reflection on the Scriptures

"Where are the other nine?" —Luke 17:17
The Samaritan leper ignores Jesus' command to go show himself to the priest. He follows his heart and not Jesus' order. In so doing, he commits an act of "religious disobedience." Presumably, when told to go his way by Jesus (Luke 17:19), he does follow Jesus' command and shows himself to the priests. This was the prescription given for healed lepers in the law of Moses (Leviticus 13:9-13). Jesus approves of a grateful heart, telling the healed man that his faith, expressed by praise and thanksgiving (Luke 17:15, 18), has been his salvation (Luke 17:19).

Jesus also asks the whereabouts of the other nine men (Luke 17:17). Could He be asking the same question of the congregation in our Mass today? Are most people in your congregation simply fulfilling their Sunday obligation to obey the Church? Are ninety-percent of the people in your parish attending Mass on "auto-pilot" to mechanically "pray, pay, and obey"? Jesus works many healings through reception of the Eucharist, so attending Mass is always a worthy act, even if done mechanically.

The word Eucharist means "thanksgiving." Therefore, praise, glorify, and thank the Lord today. "Dedicate yourselves to thankfulness" (Colossians 3:15). Continue to obey the Lord and His Church, but do so with gladness (Ps 100:2), praise (Psalm 98:4), and thanksgiving (Colossians 3:17). Prostrate yourself before the Lord and thank Him.
